Is getting admission to Sir Kazim's course difficult?

CPF

Probably not. Actually, other teachers believe in quantity; Sir Kazim believes in quality. Being Pakistan's only CSS and PMS English essay and precis coach with the highest success rate of his students, Sir grants admission to a number of aspirants whose English basics are okay.

Many students with weak English think they can learn communication skills to qualify for the CSS Essay and Precis papers within 3 to 4 months. However, the reality is different. You might have seen people preparing for the CSS and PMS examinations and always fail English papers. They usually lack basic knowledge of English and, thus, always fail in their essays and precis papers.

Admission to Sir Kazim's coaching is not as difficult as it may seem. He admits students with a decent grasp of English, typically at an intermediate or graduation level. His aim is not to create exclusivity, but rather a competitive community. In his sessions, you'll find officers, journalists, lecturers, and aspirants, all striving for excellence.

If your English basics are okay, you can easily secure admission to his course by following the admission process. However, unlike other teachers and institutions where the submission of fees guarantees admission, to join Sir Kazim's course, you have to follow the admission process.

Does Sir Kazim introduce an Essay or Precis session each month?

----- CPF -----

Sir Kazim's approach to teaching is different from that of other educators. He firmly believes that teachers who offer monthly courses are taking advantage of their students. In his view, when a student enrolls for subject preparation, it is the teacher's duty to ensure that the student not only learns and comprehends the important concepts but also gains the confidence to express themselves fluently in writing. According to Sir Kazim, a genuine teacher will not let their students leave until they are fully confident, which typically takes 3 to 4 months. Therefore, he rejects the idea of monthly sessions and instead prefers to announce successive sessions once the previous one has been completed. For Sir Kazim, prioritizing monthly sessions may bring in more money, but it falls short of doing justice to the teaching profession.

Does Sir Kazim teach one-to-one or individually?

CPF

No, Sir Kazim does not teach individually or one-to-one to local students. For Pakistani students, he introduces his Extensive English Essay and Precis Course for CSS, PMS aspirants, Teachers, Officers, Writers, Professors, and Professionals four times a year, whose fee is Rs. 15,000 per month. Individual classes are available only for international students, authors, bloggers, and writers. The fee for individual classes starts for internationals are the following:

Academic English	$ 3,500
• 2-Month Course
English for Work	$ 3,500
• 2-Month Course
English for Writers	$ 3,500
• 2-Month Course
Story Writing Course	$ 2,500
• 1-Month Course

How much evaluation does Sir Kazim offer to his students?

----- CPF -----

One of the key aspects that sets Sir Kazim apart is his unwavering support, guidance, and evaluation. After covering a topic like precis, comprehension, or essay writing, he provides immediate feedback, not just in weekly or monthly assessments, but daily if you wish. This continuous support ensures that you can get your essays, precis, etc., evaluated until your exams. Once you are a Sir's student, you are always his student.

Does Sir Kazim offer Essay or Precis mock exams, and what are the charges?

CPF

Unlike other teachers who exploit aspirants in the names of mocks and charge money for this again, Sir does not do this. Sir Kazim's extensive course includes unlimited mock exams and evaluations. If you have completed his session, you can get your essays, precis, etc., evaluated until your exams. Once you are Sir's student, you are always his student.

Does Sir Kazim offer evaluation services to outsiders?

----- CPF -----

Sir Syed Kazim Ali stands out from other teachers due to his unique approach to evaluating his students' work. Unlike others who may evaluate essays and papers for financial gain, Sir Syed only evaluates the work of his own students. He provides this valuable service to his students throughout their sessions and even up to their exams. As a result, a significant 60 to 70 per cent of his students consistently qualify in their essays and precis papers, making him Pakistan's top CSS and PMS English coach with the highest success rate of his students.

Due to the various approaches to composing argumentative or descriptive essays, CSS and PMS aspirants should adhere to a single teacher when learning essay writing. Those who learn from an inexperienced teacher always find another for evaluation due to such individuals' lack of pedagogical depth. Consequently, such aspirants usually confuse themselves and fail their essay papers. Therefore, it is crucial to learn from experienced and expert teachers whose coaching they find satisfactory instead of relying on social media or self-promoting teachers. Remember, teachers with quality typically focus on their teaching rather than publicizing themselves through social media channels or profiles, as the efficacy of their teaching and mentorship speaks for itself.

Will there be recorded lectures if someone cannot attend the class?

----- CPF -----

To comprehend the response to the question at hand, it is imperative to acknowledge the ineffectiveness of recorded lectures for serious CSS and PMS aspirants, resulting in their consistent failure to meet the examination requirements.

While many aspirants invest in recorded lectures, readymade notes, and YouTube tutorials, the reality is that these methods often lead to disappointing results in the CSS and PMS examinations. In contrast, live or online classes provide a unique level of interactive engagement and immediate feedback that recorded lectures cannot match. In a live class, students can ask questions, participate in discussions, and receive instant clarification from instructors. This not only enhances understanding and retention of material but also fosters a collaborative learning environment. Sir Kazim's live lectures, in particular, are known for their ability to engage students and make them feel involved in their studies. For serious aspirants, the choice is clear: live or online classes are the best way to prepare for the CSS and PMS examinations.

Will there be recorded lectures if someone cannot attend the class?

provide substantial benefits to students. Sir Kazim believes that the one-way flow of lecturing in recordings limits opportunities for deeper engagement. However, serious aspirants always thrive on active learning, asking questions, and participating in discussions. Recorded lectures lack the back-and-forth dialogue that clarifies concepts and fosters critical thinking. Additionally, the asynchronous nature of recordings makes it challenging to gauge understanding in real time. Serious students benefit from immediate feedback and the ability to adjust their learning based on the instructor's response. While recordings can be a valuable supplement, they cannot replace a live lecture's dynamic and interactive environment for students who truly want to prepare and qualify for the CSS and PMS examinations.

Due to these reasons, Sir Kazim does not provide pre-recorded lectures. Sir typically revises the lecture if a student cannot attend any classes.
